Nature & Nurture

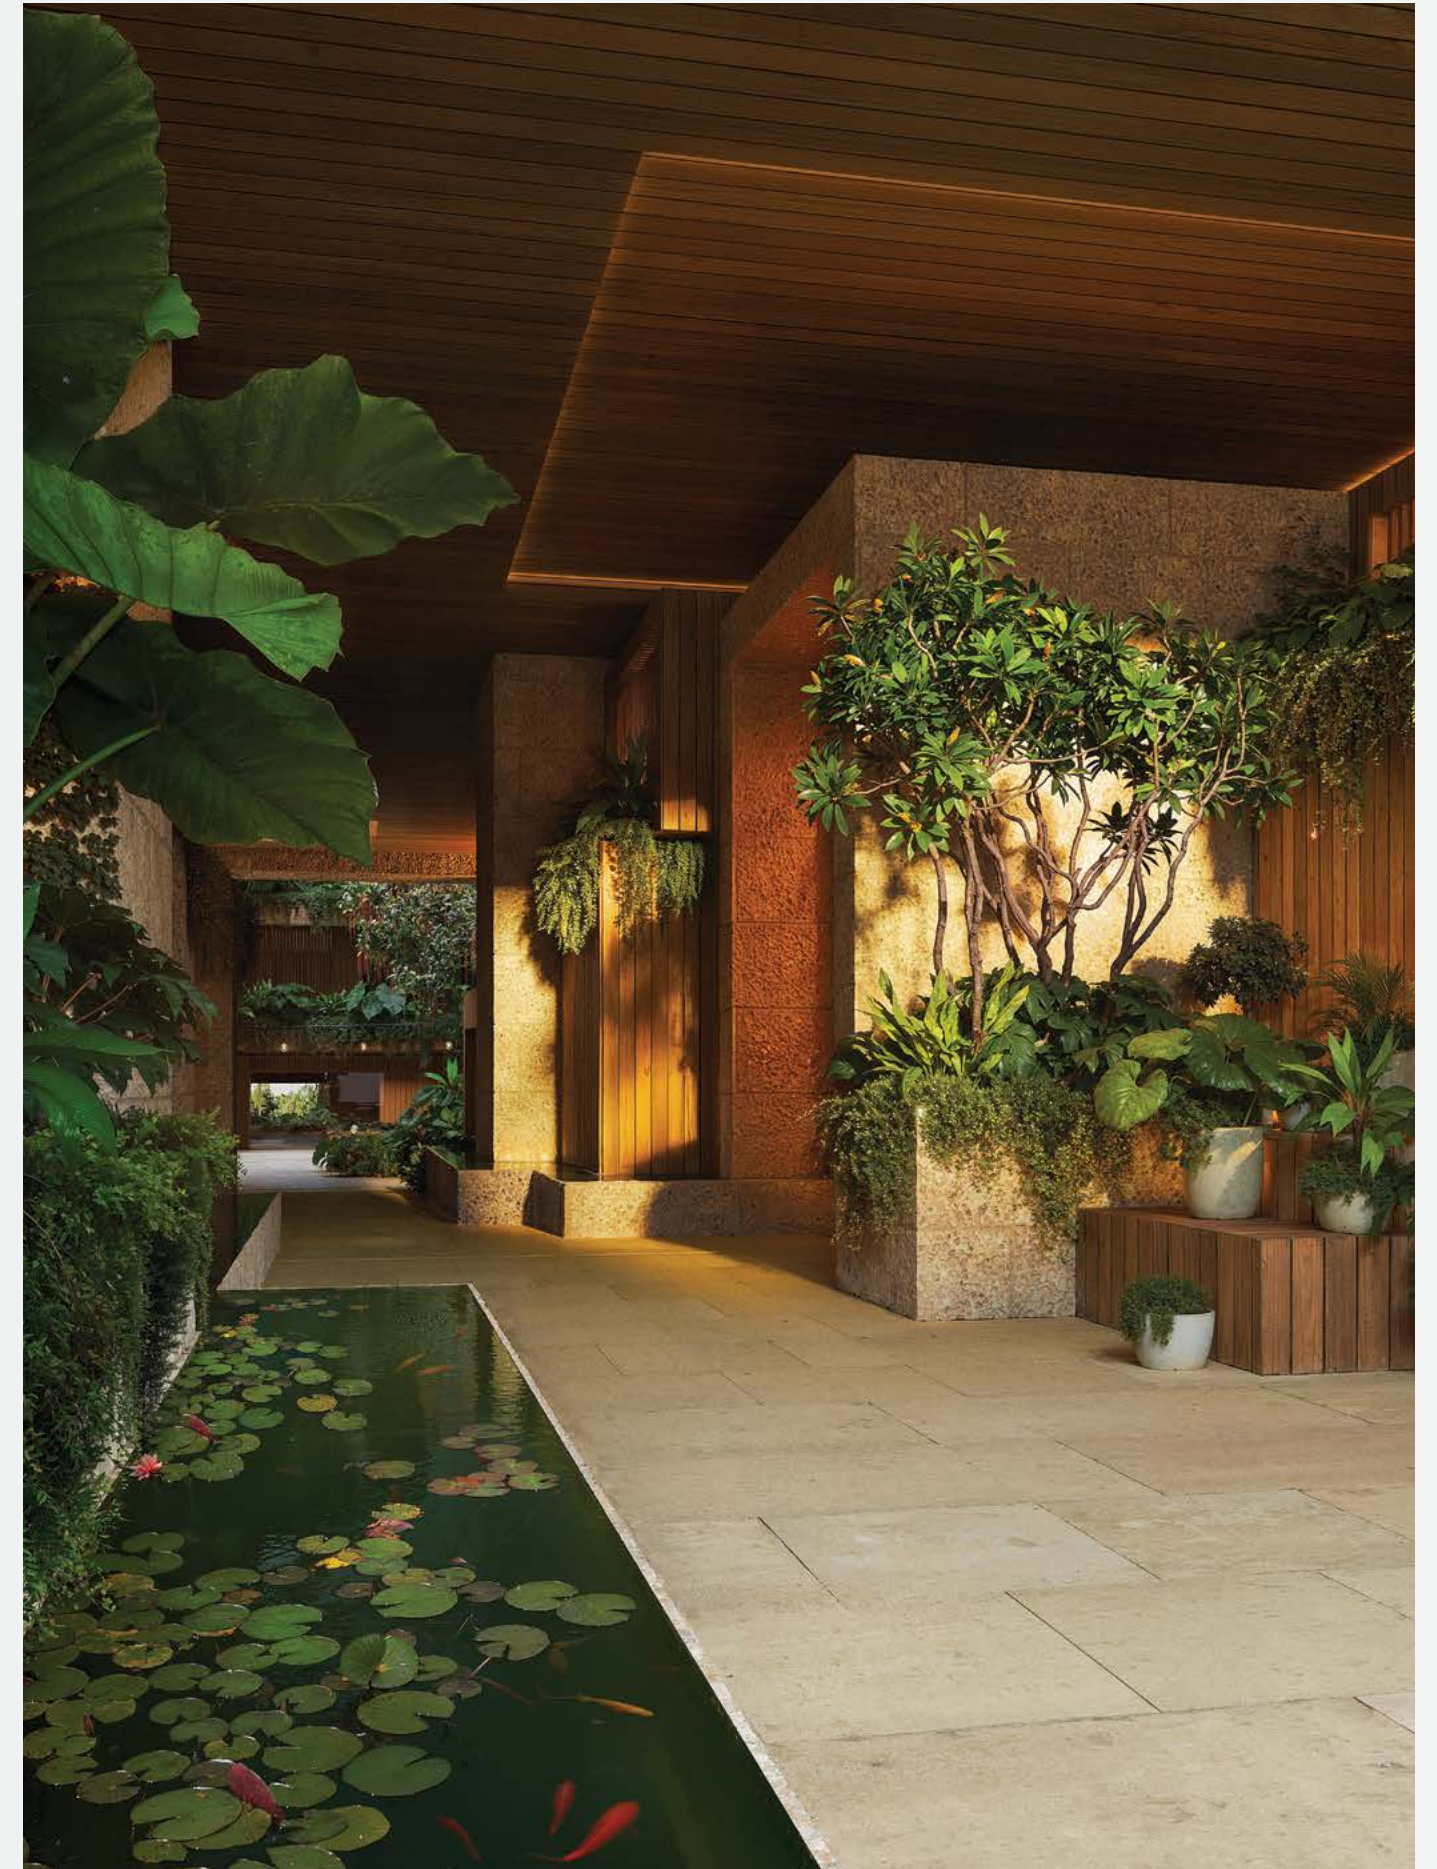

INTRODUCTION

Ziggurat is a bespoke sanctuary of biophilic design tucked in the center of Coconut Grove. A natural extension of Miami's most beautiful and storied enclave, a harmony of diverse nature and limitless nurture. Designed by Oppenheim Architecture and Collarte Interiors—a Miami-based leader in custom residential curation.

Inspired by the ingenious "stepped design" of the ancient ziggurats, which integrated cascading greenery at every level, Ziggurat introduces a contemporary mix of nature and architecture, using organic materials and verdant tropical plantings.

This intimate three-story building houses 19 bespoke homes—alongside a boutique 5-story office space—surrounded by curious, wandering paths, expansive, light-filled spaces, oolite stone, natural woods, a living forest, brilliant botanicals, and rich landscape artistry—all translated to the lively energy and welcome tranquility of Coconut Grove.

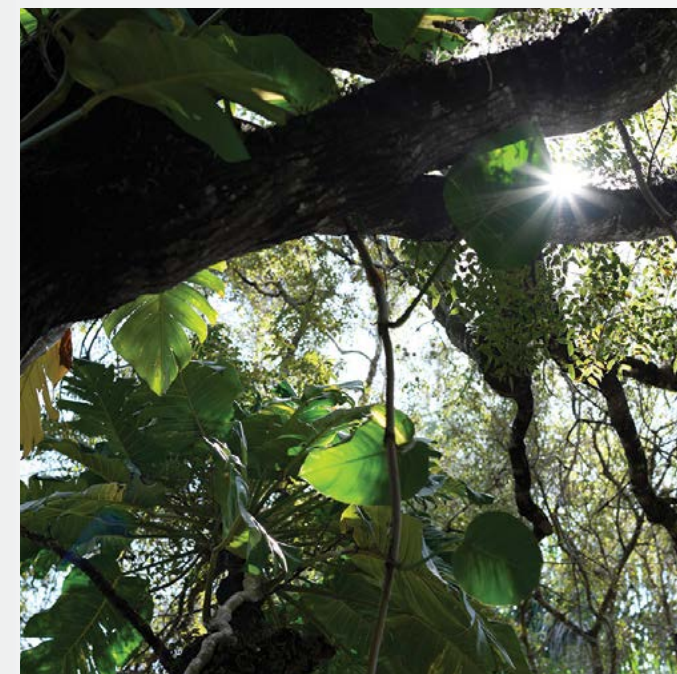

At Ziggurat's core—an outdoor paseo alive with social energy—cuisine helmed by a MICHELIN star chef, haute couture, a café that could be in Saint-Germain or Mayfair, workspaces that invite nature in. And on the ground floor, a curated collection of restaurants, shops, boutiques, and more—a refined epicenter of social energy at the heart of The Grove's most magnificent location.

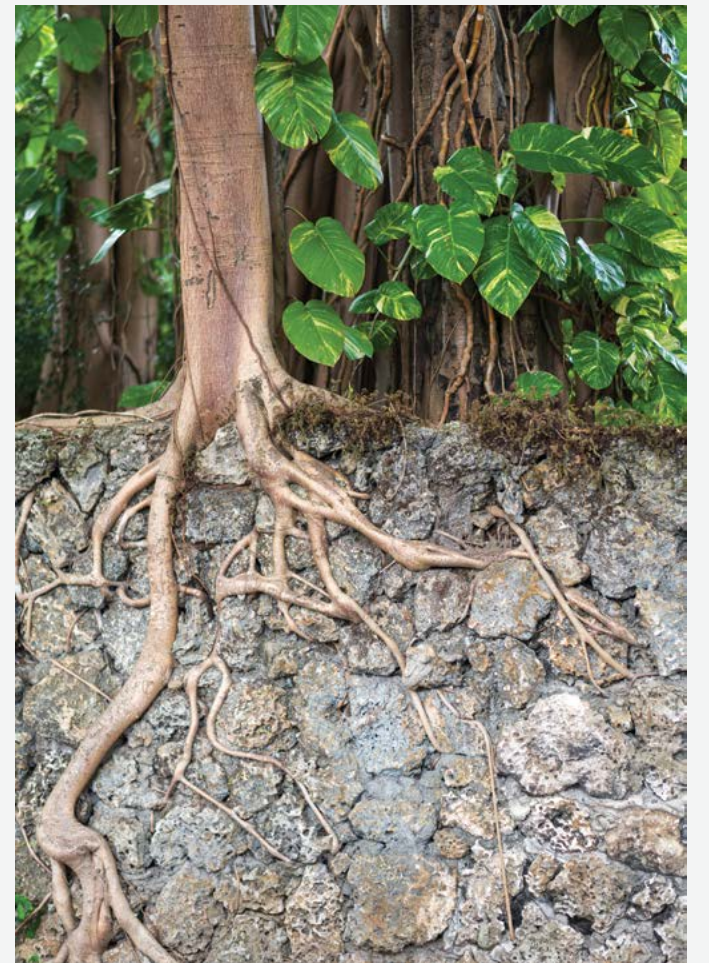

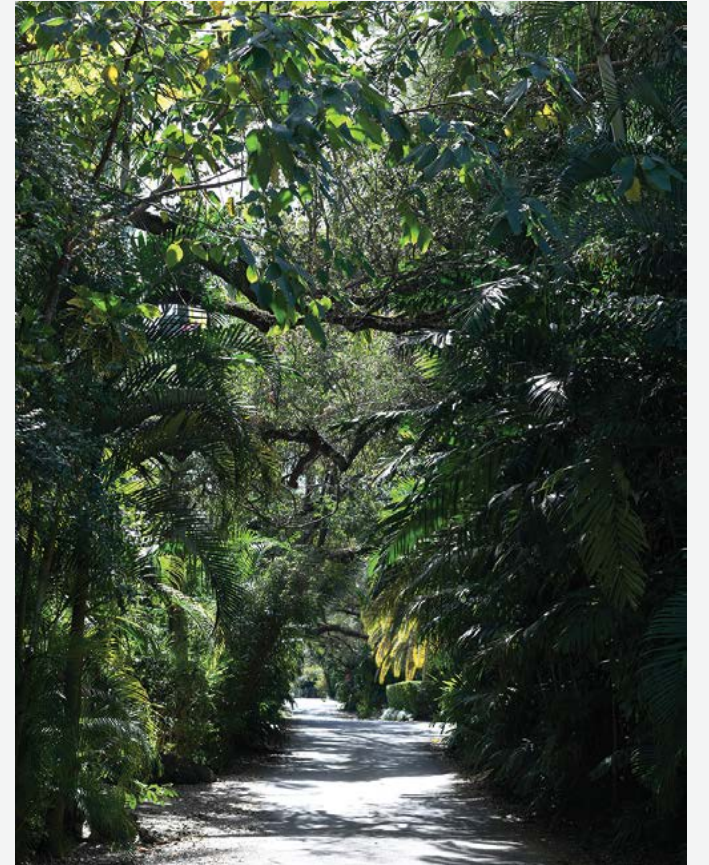

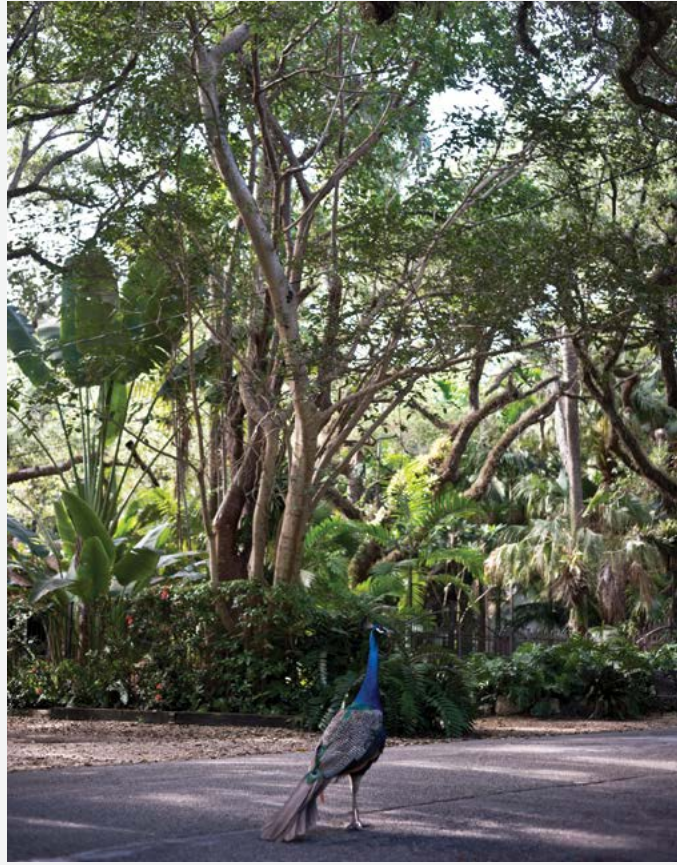

Miami's Most Storied Enclave

THE NEIGHBORHOOD

Set along glittering Biscayne Bay, Coconut Grove is known for its vibrant culture, coastal charm, rich tropical landscapes, and carefree energy. Ziggurat is nestled at its center, surrounded by cafés, boutiques, MICHELIN-starred cuisine, art galleries, bike paths, abundant green space, and the expansive Kirk Munroe Park—set to undergo a $6.3M renovation. The Grove, as it is known to locals, is anchored in history—a longtime haven of artists and intellectuals—with an ever evolving aesthetic, untouched tropical landscape, cultural curiosity, and community focus that set it apart as among Miami's most sought-after and engaging neighborhoods.
